vertising Medium it has no competitor. The announcement in THE STAR Saturday that the Secretary of the Treasury had directed the payment of the Rock Creek Park purchase money in compliance with the requisition of the park commissioners gave public notice of ment like this-from us-means something. It is the happy ending of a long and most remarka- clear, clean cut in price. A cut that goes through the ble controversy. The park movement was one spone of cost." For weeks ever since the summer near to the hearts of the people of the District and approved by the people of the country, who had an interest in any as busy as we could be supplying the demand. It measure that promised to add so much seems as if everybody looked to us to have the choicest to the attractiveness of the capital, and line and from the steady stream of shoppers that we to preserve it from the evils that must follow have served every expectation has been realized. Now, sewer, which was threatened by the rapid this reduction comes with the last few pieces that are growth of the city. The project waited for left. We want to hurry them out rather than to have years to receive the final approval of the them dragging along. In a big store like ours there lawmakers, not because of objection to the plan, is no room to house depleted varieties—but these—set but on account of disagreements as to the to the tune of reduction, will strike a lively sait. You character and extent of the park to be acquired. From the very start over a quarter of a century will get a BARGAIN-ONE OF OUR BARGAINS. ago the project met the favor of all the officers and we will accomplish our end. of the government immediately interested. In fact it was first proposed and urged by officers of the national government and committees of Congress, and not by residents of the District. It was not, however, until within a few years that the urgent need of providing for the protection of Rock creek, in the interest of the health of the capital, became so apparent as to arouse new interest in the park movement and to haster legislation. THE EVENING STAR revived public interest in the measure and vigorously urged prompt and liberal action by Congress. Citizens' committees were appointed and they, supported in every step by Tug STAR, kept the matter before Congress until the final passage of the Rock Creek Park act in September, 1890. The measure received at once the approval of the President, who promptly appointed the commissioners charged with the management of the proceedings necessary to acquire possession of the park, so that the project so long delayed might be quickly carried into execution. No one dreamed then of the law's delays, or of the long fight that the commission would have to carry on before the will of the people and of Congress could be made effective. The opposition represented but few individuals, who were not satisfied with the sums awarded for their properties. By the employment of the most ingenious pleas and subtle sophistries and every dilatory measure sanctioned by law, they succeeded in deferring the execution of the plan and almost exhausted the patience of the public. Even after the approval of the courts of the country had been added to that of Congress and the President, the obstructionists succeeded in causing still further delay by means of delusive statements intended for effect in Congress. The commissioners, however, went steadily forward in their work. To their zeal and fidelity to the task imposed upon them the public owes much. A mere perfunctory discharge of their duties would not have sufficed to have gained the park. They gave to the accomplishment of their work an enthusiasm which never flagged and a vigor which made defeat impossible. When the people take possession of the park they will hold in grateful remembrance the citizens' committee who secured the legislation, the champions of the park project in Congress, the President whose sympathy and support did much toward. the accomplishment of the plan, and last but not least, the commissioners, to whose faithful chance you will have to choose to your liking—though attention to the work intrusted to them and able management of the case the final achieveable management of the case the final achievement is mainly due.

DON'T LEAVE THE CITY.

YOU CAN PREVENT AND

CURE IT AT HOME.

Old-school medicine has accomplished little or nothing toward relieving or curing this disease except to recommend the mountains or a sea voyage. They advance numerous theories of cause, such as the dust of making hay, the polien of flowers, the fragrance of roses, the down of peaches or the incipient decay of some form of vegetation. But if you are a victim of the disease, no matter whether you eat a peach, smell a flower or go near a hay rick, it is sure to be with you on schedule time every season.

Some people can't afford to leave the city; others, who have the money, find it inconvenient, and those who go are only relieved in a measure. THE ELECTROPOISE gives your system exactly what it needs for the cure of this disease, viz: PURE OXYGEN, NOT MANUFACTURED, NOT ARTIFICIAL, but drawn from the atmosphere in which you life. You need not go to the mountains or seasohers. THE ELECTROPOISE BRINGS THEM BOTH TO YOU.

The board of assessors may find some consolation in the fact that their valuations seem to be about a medium between those of the as too high, and those of Representative Johnson, who objects to them as too low. After all what is most desired in the assessment is equality, and whether the assessors have struck exactly the right figure or not, provided they are near it, is not of so much importance if they have succeeded in equalizing assessments. Some interesting information on the subject will be found in a statement elsewhere from Mr. W. C. Dodge. His figures make a somewhat startling showing respecting Mr. Johnson's request, which Mr. Dodge says, if granted, would nake the aggregate assessed value of District property greater than that of the property in many of the states of the Union.

The near approach of the democratic convention brings to the front the "views" of Tammany as to the renomination of Mr. Cleveland. The bigger bosses, including Croker, Cochran and Grant, declare that if nominated at Chicago the ex-President would secure the vote of Tammany, but some of the smaller chiefs predict defeat under his leadership. Mr. Murphy, chairman of the state committee, only says that he does not think Cleveland will be nominated. The fact is clear that Tammany is opposed to his candidacy at present, whatever may be the case hereafter, and with Tammany Hall are some other New York democrats.

The mass meetings yesterday at the First Presbyterian and the Congregational churches in aid of the movement to stimulate congressional action in the matter of the one-mile limit will doubtless have effect. That the people of the District expect the law to be what it professes to be is perfectly evident. The liquor traffic has sufficient field elsewhere than in the neighborhood of the Soldiers' Home. It is depriving nobody of his rights, and merely giving the orderly part of the community theirs, to re-strict the traffic as the framers of the law intended, but, it seems, failed to do.

While our local legislature is about it, the law relating to the sale of liquor to minors,ought to be so amended as to prevent the sale by wholesale, which is possible under the defective provisions of the law.

The explanation of the British government's dropping the local government bill for Ireland after its passing the second reading by a good majority, is the very decided opposition to the easure, both in the unionist and conservative ranks. It really seems to be a mockery to take FLANAGAN'S JEWELRY ESTABLISHMENT up a bill like this on the eve of a general elecon only to lay it down again. It is an exhibition of weakness only warranted by the fear that its passage now, if practicable, would still further weaken the party's hold. The Irish appeared to be as little pleased with the local rnment bill as the government party. The
